

Review Resso

Moon Video

Resso is an app to listen to music developed by Moon Video and available on Android and iOS. Behind the project is ByteDance, the creators of TikTok. In addition to the traditional functions of this type of program, it combines elements of a social network. It is free to download and offers subscriptions

If there is a field in which the development of the internet, mobile technology and apps in general has helped, it is music. Since the beginning of the network, access to songs has been easier. We no longer have to wait for the precious album to come out or wait for the radio to decide to play the musical theme we have been waiting for so long. Today there are many music programs and apps that will allow you to enjoy the best bands and artists online, whenever you want and no matter where you are.

Although the best known, popular and used by all is Spotify, competition in the sector is important. Today ByteDance (the owner of TikTok, the new most important social network of the moment) has decided to stand up to the music streaming giant and launch Resso. A new contender for audio platforms. In this way, it joins Apple Music, YouTube Music, Deezer or Tidal among others.

Resso is an app developed by Moon Video but, as we said, behind it it has the support of those responsible for TikTok. Today the platform is available in the virtual stores of the systems that have Android and iOS. It can be downloaded for free and offers different subscription plans if you want to access the premium service.

The main task that you will be able to do when downloading Resso is to listen to music. But the app has some distinctive features that place it as an alternative to consider among the programs that offer this type of service.

The main element that makes the Moon Video program interesting is that it combines functions of a social network. This happens thanks to the fact that you can comment, share and write opinions, messages and feelings of the music that you choose to have within your profile. People can also record and send videos of their opinions. In turn, if you are one of the people who like to sing while listening to their favorite musical groups, you have the option of following the lyrics of the songs in each of them. As the song progresses, the lyrics of the song are synchronized so you can follow it.

In addition, among other advantages of Resso, you can capture a phrase of the musical theme you are listening to and convert it into an image or a gif to share it among friends or with other users.

Music is something very personal. It marks us as individuals and, many times, determines our personality. A day with or without music is not the same. Many of us feel that we have a soundtrack to our lives and we cannot live without it. For this reason, with Resso you can organize playlists with your favorite artists, songs and bands. Set up a list of topics for each particular moment. Maybe you want a series of topics to read or study, one for a dinner with friends, another for a romantic encounter and another for a holiday. Organize your music library as you like.

You can also listen to music online without any type of restriction, without interruptions and without advertising. You can even download it to listen offline. Take your favorite sounds at any time, wherever you want.

Resso has a complex task and enters one of the most competitive fields on the market. However, its creators have managed to enter the competition of social networks with TikTok, which shows that they have the ability to produce top-quality products that can fight the giants of the industry.

The Moon Video application combines the traditional elements of this type of program with the novelty of wanting to form at the same time as a social network. The chance to interact with other users, share opinions, send videos or gif is something new and can be entertaining.

On the other hand, for those who have the heart of an artist and want to sing while listening to their favorite songs, they will be able to follow the lyrics second by second. Install Resso on your mobile and get to know one of the latest proposals for streaming music services. Give an emerging show a chance that is sure to be a hit in the future.

Pros	Cons
- New proposal - Synchronized lyrics - Option to share messages - You can create animations with the lyrics of the songs	- Not available in all regions - Limited catalog - Need translation into more languages - Product under development
